I got a special text from my friend. It was a simple "Thank you" for helping them when they needed it. What made it memorable was the sincerity in those two words. It reminded me of the value of small gestures and the importance of being there for each other.

Question 3: We sometimes have problems while sending text messages.
Tell me about a time when you had trouble sending a text message. Start by giving me some background and then explain what you did to deal with the situation.

Answer:
I once had an issue sending a text when my phone had low battery. I didn't realize it, and the message wouldn't go through. When I noticed, I charged my phone, and the text sent successfully. It taught me to check my battery before sending important messages.
